Forecast for Thursday 13 May 2021

Weather: Generally dry and largely clear overnight, with sunny spells to start the morning. However cloud bubbling up during the morning to give showers, heavy and perhaps thundery at times, but with some sunny spells possible during the afternoon. Showers only gradually easing during the evening. Low cloud will move into eastern areas of the Park later in the evening.

Chance of cloud free mountain/hill tops above 600m: 90%, with cloud bases largely above the hilltops except perhaps in the heaviest showers. Becoming 20% in the east of the Park towards midnight as low cloud moves in with bases down to 400-500m.

Visibility: Generally good, with clear views of distant hills. Becoming poor in heavier showers, with nearby hills temporarily obscured. Very poor in low cloud covering hills later.

Forecast for Friday 14 May 2021

Weather: Low cloud will affect much of the Park, but especially eastern areas, during the early hours. This will slowly burn back to the east coast during the morning, allowing some sunny spells, but also some isolated showers. The showers should be lighter and more isolated than on Thursday.

Maximum wind: Largely light and variable, becoming Northeasterly 10 mph for a time.

Chance of cloud free mountain/hill tops above 600m: 20% at first with low cloud bases 400-500m, especially in the east of the Park. Becoming 90% during the morning, with cloud bases perhaps touching the summits in any isolated showers.

Visibility: Often poor or very poor to start in low cloud covering the hills, with nearby landmarks obscured. Becoming generally good with distant hills visible, but moderate at times in any showers.

Temperature: Valleys: Plus 2C becoming plus 13C
At 600m: Plus 2C becoming plus 6C
Freezing level: Above summits.
